

When Customers or Auditors Look Up Do They Say “Yuck”

Restaurants, offices, hospitals, bakeries, clean their floors daily. What about those ceilings? Customers waiting for service or food look around, including up. Health inspectors and corporate auditors see dirty ceilings as a poor reflection on the food being prepared. Clients in offices look at the ceiling while waiting for a meeting. Dirty vents cause concerns about air quality. Family members in hospital cafeterias wonder if a dirty ceiling reflects on the quality of care being given to their loved ones.

Clean Ceilings at a Low Cost is an Option

Owners and managers should not be afraid to look at their ceilings. Ceilings can look professional without the expense of replacing them!

The appearance of a ceiling can be improved immensely by cleaning the tiles, covering rusted & stained metal t-bars, and replacing rusted vents. Routine cleaning of ceilings can improve its appearance 70-80% without damage overnight and prolong its life.

Metal t-bars which hold ceiling tiles can become grossly stained and rusted in busy kitchens, cafeteria, and bakeries. Replacing the t-bars can be costly and require a restaurant to close.

Install Vinyl Grid Cover, Not New T-Bar

Installation of vinyl grid covers can usually be completed in 1-2 nights. Metal air diffusers and returns can be replaced with vinyl ones that clean easily and do not rust. No permits are required to give the ceiling a new look.

Customers Should Remember Service

. . .Not Ceilings

Cleaning, installation of grid covers, replacement of rusted and stained vents can create a new look for a kitchen, office, cafeteria, or any place with a tired, dirty looking ceiling. A small investment of time and money has outstanding results. A positive impression on customers, health inspectors and corporate auditors brings positive returns.
